PRICE TWO CENTS

CIVIL SUIT WILL DEMAND REDRESS FOR BOY HUBERT

JUDGE BRINDLEY APPOINTS BURDICK GUARDIAN

EVANS AND DVORAK ACT

Contribute Services at Request of Tribune and Examination Confirms Brutality

There is a strong possibility that such justice as a money consideration will afford may yet be done. Arthur Hubert, the 15-year-old boy for the torture of whom C. A. Mundstock, a well-to-do farmer, paid a fine of $75 in county court Saturday.

The story of the brutality of Mundstock, as revealed in the evidence in court, created considerable public feeling Saturday afternoon. The fine which he paid seemed so out of proportion to the seriousness of his offense, and even the limit which the court might have assessed under a charge of assault and battery, which is $100 and six months in jail, seemed so far from reaching the demands of the case, that public comment showed surprise and disappointment.

Immediately after the trial Saturday afternoon The Tribune enlisted the assistance of Drs. Evans and Dvorak, and a careful examination of the boy's injuries was made. Acting Humanitarian Officer "Sol" Burdick brought him to the office, and was present during the examination. The sores on his back, scores in number, were pronounced to be wounds in all conditions ranging from scars of healed sores to recently inflicted hurts. One hand had been crippled with a potato hook, the boy said, his head was scarred by a blow from a milk stool, and both arms bore permanent deformities from blows. The physicians expressed wonder and horror as they examined the work of the fiend who had been released on a small fine upon his promise, "I swear I'll never do it again."

It is said by Mr. Burdick that County Physician Egan had not been fully satisfied of the nature of that portion of the wounds attributed to a pitchfork, especially as to the time of their infliction, and that he had asked Burdick to take him to a hospital to be seen by other physicians. This, Mr. Burdick said, he had not had time to do, and the case went to trial without such examination.

After the medical examination, The Tribune management sought legal advice in the matter, and it was stated that a civil action would lie to recover damages in favor of Hubert. The first step in this direction was to have been the appointment of a guardian for the boy. Judge Brindley, after a consultation with Mr. Burdick, who was present when The Tribune's plans were being discussed, took the step on his own initiative this afternoon, naming Mr. Burdick. The judge confirmed the opinion of The Tribune's attorney that a civil action might be maintained. Prominent citizens have decided to press the suit, provided suitable action is not taken without their intervention.

Several farmers from the Mormon colonies have made application for the boy but in all probability he will be placed on a farm in some other locality.

STOCKHOLDERS NOT TO TASTE THE MELON

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 24.—The supreme court today affirmed the decision of the federal court of New York in dismissing a bill brought by Clarence Verner, of New York, against the Great Northern railroad, and James J. Hill, to recover for himself and other stockholders of the company some ten million dollars profits alleged to have accrued to Hill and the syndicate that brought about the Northern Securities merger. The only question before the court was whether the lower court had jurisdiction. The supreme court held it had.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Mrs. James Barry, a New Jersey woman, is making a search of the Chinatown dives in an effort to find her husband, a jeweler, who has mysteriously disappeared, and who Mrs. Barry fears is being held for ransom in Chinatown. STRANGE ITALIAN MURDERS PRIEST

SLAYS DENVER HOLY MAN IN

SEEK IDENTITY IN THE EAST

Wakefield, Mass., and Chicago May Hold Story of Mysterious Criminal

DENVER, Col., Feb. 24.—Father Leo Heinrichs was shot and killed when administering the sacrament at mass in St. Elizabeth's cathedral at 6 o'clock yesterday morning. Kneeling at the altar rail between two women, Alio Giuseppe pressed the muzzle of a revolver against the body of the priest, after receiving from him the consecrated wafer, and shot the priest through the heart. Exclaiming "My God, my God," Father Leo fell in front of the altar, and died without uttering another word.

With an inarticulate scream the assassin sprang into the aisle and waving the smoking pistol about his head, dashed to the church door. Patrolman Daniel Cronin overtook the fleeing Italian on the steps. Giuseppe attempted to shoot the policeman, but was foiled and overpowered after a desperate fight.

Giuseppe admitted that the priest whom he had killed was a stranger to him, and in explanation of his crime made the following statement: "I just went over there because I have a grudge against priests in general. They are all against the workingman."

Giuseppe, or Guaraccio, as he later styled himself, has not been identified. Inquiries are being made in Chicago, where he said he once worked, and in Wakefield, Mass., to which place a letter found in his possession points.

Shippy Inquiries.
CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—Information sent to Chief of Police Shippy that Giuseppe Guaraccio, the anarchist, who murdered Father Heinrichs in Denver, once lived here, has caused the detectives to search the Italian quarter for information concerning the identity of the slayer.

Not the Right Man
WAKEFIELD, Mass., Feb. 24.—The slayer of Father Heinrichs is not the Giuseppe Guaraccio, known here. At least, he is not the respected citizen of that name who is foreman of a shoe factory. Letters in the assassin's pockets showed only one definite address—Wakefield. Several Italians who are working under Guaraccio believe the slayer once worked here and assumed the name. None of the Italians recall Alio Giuseppe, the first name given by the slayer.

WIFE DESERTER UP FOR CONTEMPT

ALBERT HANSON FAILED TO PAY ALIMONY

W.FE OCCUPIES THE STAND

Tells Court of Alleged Suffering, and Testifies She Never Received a Penny for Alimony

The trial of Albert Hanson on the charge of contempt of court was before the circuit court this morning. Attorney Hood, for the defense, made his closing plea to the jury at twelve o'clock. The case was adjourned until this afternoon, when District Attorney Otto Bosshard made his plea. Hanson deserted his wife and failed to pay alimony as ordered.

Mrs. Hanson occupied the stand the greater part of the morning, testifying to the time Hanson left the city. She said that he gave her no notice whatever when he left, April 17, 1905.

She said she did not know anything of his whereabouts until some time in October, when he was arrested in Arkansas, where the defendant, Hanson, said he was treating for painter's colic, at the Hot Springs.

Claims Wife Kept Poison
Attorney Hood said that Mrs. Hanson kept the milk which her husband drank separate from the other milk, and that she kept a bottle of corbolic acid near the pitcher from which he got his milk, and that Hanson believed that she was "doping" him. "That would be cause enough for any man to leave his wife," said Attorney Hood.

Mrs. Hanson testified on cross-examination by Attorney Hood that she did not have any medicine or anything in the house and that she only used a bottle of solution at one time, before the divorce proceedings with which she treated a sore on her limb.

Husband Gets Money

She said that when she married Hanson she had $100 in the bank which was drawn out for use by Hanson a few days prior to the wedding and that he also got $50 from her afterward.

Her father's name is Christianson and she said that they went to her home soon after the wedding and remained from October 26 until January, 1905, the wedding having occurred some time in 1903.

She said that the first she knew that Hanson was back in the city was when she heard that he had a room at 811 Rose street, and that she went to talk with him, but did not go to his room. She also said that another woman had told her that there was a woman in the building. She said she did not believe that the woman was staying with Hanson. Hanson said that Doctor Gunderson advised him to go west for treatment.

BOGUS CHECK FOUND

A bogus check for $5 given to the Scotch Woolen Mills Company turned up at the National bank today. The police are investigating.

NEW PICTURE THEATRE TO OPEN

Within a few days La Crosse will have another amusement theater. The Gantner building, 114 South Third street, recently occupied by the Unique theatre and later the Penny Arcade, is now being remodelled and will soon be opened with a moving picture and illustrated song theater. The James W. Harp company, recently of Detroit, will have charge of the new house which will be named the "Orpheum." The concern is entirely independent of any other company.

The illustrated songs will be sung by a woman from Dubuque, who has been connected with that work for several years.

SAYS "BOB" WILL BOB UP TO WIN

CHICAGO TRIBUNE SOLON SEES LA FOLLETTE COMING

HE MAY NOT WIN THIS TIME

But "Raymond" Reviews His Career and "Prophesies He Will One Day Be President

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—In his Washington correspondence to the Chicago Tribune, Raymond (Patterson), the distinguished political journalist, says:

It was inevitable that Robert Marion La Follette should some day be a veritable aspirant for the presidential nomination. He has been in politics since his boyhood, and it comes as natural for him to fight for what he wants as to take it when he gets it. He is a man with an omniscient political history. He has the habit of fixing his eyes on an office, getting knocked down repeatedly, and finally winning.

"He achieved the office of governor of Wisconsin only after repeated defeats. He knew he was beaten for the time being, but he never was counted out of the ring. If one may judge by an analogy of his past history Senator La Follette will contest for the republican nomination for president two or three more times and then win the reward of his aggravating persistence."

"Little Bob," he has always been, and little he always will be so far as stature goes. It takes some people a long time to learn, however, that size and strength are not always synonymous. Senator La Follette, for instance, is far below medium height. He cultivates a pompadour, which only makes his face look long and sharp. Yet this "little" man, who is often lost in a crowd, is made up of whipcord and steel springs. He has the endurance and resiliency of a real athlete. He falls often, not like a cat, but with the physical intelligence of a trained gymnast. Physically he would be a bad man to mix with in a general scrimmage.

Milk and Nuts His Diet.

"Small in stature, predisposed toward a serious incoherence in his 'inside workings,' unable to digest red meat, looking terribly tired and frayed out at times, this 'Little Bob,' who not so long ago was the 'boy congressman,' can tire out strong men in a campaigning tour. He gets tired, terribly so, and shows it in his voice, his walk, and the occasional premature furrows of his face."

"The thing about this man is that, in spite of this weariness apparent to every one he meets, he does not give up. You can't tire out that kind of a man. You may hit him with a hammer or administer chloroform, but so long as he is conscious his alert persistence will surely continue."

"Some day some great ex-German scientist will discover the relation between a diet of milk and English walnuts and intense physical and moral perseverance. The Wisconsin man is a vegetarian because he found it necessary to refrain from certain forms of food. He was dyspeptic, and a close study of his face will show this fact even now. He is not irritable nor discourteous, but there are lines in that striking, theatrical face which came not from brainstorms, but from gastric areas of low barometer."

Simply Waiting for Fight.

"Sweet milk and English walnuts, persisted in day after day, would disconcert quail as an article of steady diet, and yet the little man from Wisconsin eats these two things about every day and almost every meal. He dips into fish now and then, and once in a while tastes chicken, turkey or possibly a game bird, but red meats and the flesh of all quadrupeds are practically barred out of the life of the public man who has fought his way in politics for more than a quarter of a century."

"Children used to be told that the terrible beasts of prey always lived on the flesh of their victims, while 'bossy' and 'bunny' were supposed to be gentle because of their addition to the green things of earth. Yet here is a fighter who eats no red meat. And Senator La Follette is a fighter. Make no mistake about that."

"If he has stagnated here in Washington and has proved a disappointment to the radical element in the country, it is only because the battle line has not yet come his way. Just as sure as the supply of milk and walnuts continues, just so sure will Robert Marion La Follette fight for a place in the first rank."

Leader of the Radicals.

When a mere boy, just out of the law school, he fought for his political office and won out against a resourceful and experienced political leader. The day may come when the whipcord will stretch and the steel springs break, but until that time "Little Bob" will be a factor to be counted upon in the great game of American politics.

As matters stand now, Senator La Follette represents a distinct and individual political force. He is the natural leader of the most radical element among the republicans. The

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 24.—"If there were war now instead of peace, our lack of coalers manned under our own flag might fatally delay or absolutely prevent the transfer of a battleship fleet from the Atlantic to meet an enemy sweeping down on the Philippines, Hawaii, Puget Sound or San Francisco."

Thus Senator Gallinger, of New Hampshire, champion of the subsidy of American merchant marine, in the senate this afternoon painted a picture of grave possibilities, in his advocacy of the bill granting second class mail ships the same subsidy paid first class vessels in transportation of mails. Showing the falling off of American shipping interests, he said that last March fifteen American ships were plying the Pacific, but now only eight are left, and that since the defeat of the shipping bill in the last congress almost half the Pacific naval reserve had disappeared.

"But this is not the worst," he declared. "The most startling and humiliating episode of the year is the revelation which the cruise of Admiral Evans's fleet is affording, that our merchant marine doesn't contain enough ocean going colliers to provide the indispensable fuel for ships between American ports. Need we wonder that in spite of the Monroe doctrine we are being quietly shouldered out of South America by other governments?"

Senator Burrett gave notice that he would take up the Dooliver school bill Wednesday.

SHERMAN ACT NOT REPEALED

Supreme Court in Sustaining N. P.
Rebate Fine Says Elkins' Act Did Not So Operate

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 24.—That the Elkins act was not repealed by the Hepburn rate law, was the decision by the United States supreme court today in the case of the Great Northern railroad, which had been found guilty and fined under the Elkins law in the court below for granting rebates to W. P. Devereux & Company, of Minneapolis. This knocks out the Standard Oil contention that it should not be compelled to pay the twenty million dollar fine, assessed against it by Judge Landis of Chicago, in the Alton rebate cases. The Oil trust had contended that it was illegally prosecuted under the terms of the Sherman act because, it claimed, the passage of the Elkins act prior to the suit had repealed the Sherman act, and its provisions were no longer the law.

FRANCO PLOT TO FORCE REACTION

LONDON, Feb. 24.—The Lisbon correspondent of the Daily Mail, telegraphing by way of Madrid, referring to the many sensational reports of plots to overthrow the Portuguese government, says that this is undoubtedly a reactionary plot by followers of former Prime Minister Franco, with the object of causing public riots which would give an excuse for the resumption of repressive measures. The coup was planned to occur Thursday night, and was almost successful. An armed crowd assembled in the streets, but the authorities realizing that a conflict with the troops would promote the reactionary intrigue, confined the soldiers to the barracks, thus averting trouble.

FREEPORT SIGNS A MAJOR LEAGUER

FREEPORT, Ill., Feb. 24.—In securing Outfielder Charles Maggett, who signed up with Freeport, the champions get one of the best outfielders in minor league baseball. Maggett belonged to Pittsburgh, but was farmed out to Wheeling of the Central league last season and made good, hitting .270 and fielding first class.

Manager Thomas Schoonhoven of the Freeport Pretzels has practically completed his team for the season. Outfielders Ireland and Disch and Pitchers Darrah and Scott have renewed their contracts for the coming year, and Stark's contract is on the way. Schoonhoven's men will report for duty April 15.

Charles Rosenhaier, a pitcher, and Floyd Rickenbaugh, outfielder, both of Oregon, Ill., will be given try-out with Freeport this season. Outfielder Driscoll of Chicago, who batted .576 in thirty-two games on the Wallace, Idaho, team last season, will also be tried out.

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 24.—The University of Chicago basketball team defeated Minnesota 28 to 23. Although the play was rough at all stages, both teams played great basketball, and superior endurance gave the maroons a victory in the last few minutes of play. Brown and Bigelow Prove at Home, While La Crosse Man Does Not Do His Best in State Tourney

Saturday afternoon James Brown of Milwaukee defeated Charles Schweizer of La Crosse in the fourth game of the state amateur championship, 14-2, back line at Milwaukee. The final score was 390 to 196. Both players started out well in the first innings, after which Schweizer fell off and allowed his opponent to get a lead of nearly 40 points in the next innings. From then on Brown continued well in the lead and at no other time was the final result in doubt. In fact, it was only a question of how many innings it would take Brown to complete his string of 300 points. Schweizer was out of stroke the last half of the game and missed many of his draw shots. Following is the score by innings:

Brown—0 0 15 1 13 2 0 1 5 4 8	18 21 12 1 0 6 19 1 13 3 29 0 0 4 0

Evening Game. The evening game brought Tom Bigelow of Milwaukee and Charles Schweizer of La Crosse together. Interest in his game was keen, as both players were anxious to win to allow them inside the prizes.

Schweizer was still in the same bad stroke as in the afternoon and could not get the balls to roll to his liking. When they did come together, it generally resulted in a line-up. He did not get into the double figures until the thirty-first inning when he got 14. His best run of 22 came in the second last inning. Bigelow on the other hand, started out with the determination to win, not only the game but the high run and high average. In his seventh he made 34 and missed an easy draw, which had made it, would have tied the high run of the tournament. Up to this inning he had an average of nearly 10. But having the game well in hand he became careless and fell off his usual game. He finally won out in the sixty-third inning by the score of 300 to 192. Following is the score in detail:

Bigelow—12 14 9 4 0 24 6 8 2 7 3 2 1 8 2 4 5 1 4 0 1 0 7 10 5 0 0 0 0 4 0 4 0 0 11 2 1 23 4 0 6 4 2 2 13	9 1 1 0 6 2 2 1 0 3 1 2 12 2 2 0 0 12. Total, 300. High runs, 34, 23, 21. Average, 4 48-63.

Do You Deliberately Torture Yourself Alive By Neglecting Your Stomach?

Remedy Free For the Asking

A great outcry has arisen during the last few years against scientists who torture dumb animals alive in the interests of science. How many people are there, however, who needlessly torture themselves by causing their stomachs to overwork. Dyspepsia, indigestion, heartburn, sleeplessness, loss of vim and energy are the inevitable result.

Are you one of these? Why not give your stomach a rest? Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will relieve your stomach of all its work and do it for you. They are compounded of the very elements and do the work which the stomach performs when in normal health, aseptic pepsin, malt diastase and like ingredients.

Dr. Richardson in writing a thesis on treatment of dyspepsia and indigestion, closes his remarks by saying, "For those suffering from acid dyspepsia, shown by sour, watery risings, or for flatulent dyspepsia shown by gas on stomach, causing heart trouble and difficult breathing, as well as for all other forms of stomach trouble, the safest treatment is to take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal. I advise them because they contain no harmful drugs, but are composed of valuable digestives, which act promptly upon the food eaten. I never knew a case of indigestion or even chronic dyspepsia which Stuart's Tablets would not reach."

Cheap cathartic medicines claiming to cure dyspepsia and indigestion can have no effect whatever in actively digesting the food, and to call any cathartic medicine a cure for indigestion is a misnomer.

Every druggist in the United States and Canada sells Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and they are not only the safest and most successful but the most scientific of any treatment for indigestion and stomach troubles. CARNIVAL INCLUDES MANY RING STARS

SPOKANE, Wash., Feb. 24.—The $100,000 pugilistic carnival which Frank W. Smith of this city tried to pull off last spring may be attempted again this summer or fall. Smith says the big fund to be given in purses for the three or four championship bouts is still available.

Smith hopes to persuade Jim Jeffries to re-enter the ring to fight Jack Johnson for a purse of $50,000. Failing in that, Burns may be matched with the negro. The other bouts would be between Ketchel and Papke, Gans and Nelson, and McFarland and Unholz.

BREAKS RECORD IN SKI MEET

ISHPEMING, Mich., Feb. 24.—Ten thousand people from all parts of the United States and Canada saw the American ski record smashed at the Ishpeeming tournament. The record of 117 feet, made last Sunday by John Mangseth at Duluth, was broken by John Evenson of Duluth, who jumped 122 feet and stood. He later jumped 127 feet but fell.

Other jumps over Mangseth's records were 119 by Johann of Coleraine, and 119 by Felling of Duluth. Briney Riley, aged 14 years, of Coleraine, jumped ninety-eight feet and stood, and 109 falling.

It was the best ski jumping ever seen in America.

WELSH IS AFTER ANOTHER MATCH

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 24.—Freddie Welsh who lost the decision to Packy McFarland on Friday night, was around town, showing no visible signs of the encounter beyond a slight limp, due to the injury to his groin, caused by McFarland's foul blows. Welsh declares that if McFarland had not weakened him by hitting low, the Irishman would have sustained a thorough trimming. McFarland landed only a few hard punches until after he had fouled in the fourth round, Welsh says. Welsh is confident that he can beat McFarland and stands ready to make a side bet on the result.

SCHAEFER DEFEATS CUTLER

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 24.—The 1500-point 18.1 billiard match between Jake Schaefer of Chicago and Alfred Cutler of Boston, which has been in progress here since last Monday, ended with Schaefer a winner. His score for the night was 300 and Cutler's 118. Their totals were, Schaefer 1,500, Cutler 1,224.

PURSE THIS BRUTE.

Saturday, in county court, August Moonstock was found guilty of assault and battery upon the person of Adolph Hubert, a 15-year-old orphan boy given into his charge some eleven years ago by a Milwaukee church, orphanage. The maximum penalty, under the charge of assault and battery, is $100 fine, or six months in jail, or both. The court fined him $75 and costs, and discharged him after a reprimand. The boy was taken from his custody, and is now in the hands of Acting Poor Commissioner Sol Burdick.

The evidence in the case was the most shocking ever adduced in a La Crosse court and if the statutes provide no specific name, and punishment, for it other than simple assault and its penalty, a new crime should be defined and drastic penalization prescribed at the earliest opportunity.

There was no dispute as to the facts. So far as questioned (although Mr. Burdick says the entire category of atrocities was not covered) Moonstock admitted the separate offenses charged by the boy, the recital of which comprises a story of studied brutality the like of which has seldom been told. Some of the things which this monster did, as proven and admitted, follow:

Jabbed the boy in the back from the waist line to his ankles with a pitchfork; broke his wrist by a blow with a stick; cut open his head by hitting him with a milk stool; cri-pled one hand with a potato hook; disfigured both arms by beating them with a stick.

For this terrible torture, which he had been inflicting on an overworked boy for years, Moonstock paid $75 and received a scolding.

So preposterous did the story seem that the management of The Tribune felt skeptical, and in order to make sure enlisted the services of two prominent physicians. An examination was made, with the consent and assistance of Mr. Burdick, and a terrible state of affairs was disclosed. From waistline to ankles the boy is a mass of wounds, some possibly a few days old, scores of them but scars healed years ago.

His boy arms, mangled like those of a man by incessant toil, his head and limbs scarred with various wounds, his spirit broken by browbeating and torture, this boy presented a pitiable spectacle. The number of pitchfork wounds, at a conservative estimate, runs into the hundreds, and so startling seemed the thought that civilization is shamed by a man who could do this thing that the physicians examined the sores with the most extreme caution and questioned the boy closely to detect some evidence that he was dissembling, but the diagnosis was emphatic—wounds, all wounds, hundreds of wounds.

Moonstock did not abuse his own children, the boy said. His venemous nature satiated itself with attacks on the helpless foundling entrusted to his care. His wife, the boy said, would secretly wash his wounds and rub them with healing salve whenever he was pricked with the fork, or otherwise injured. The child lacks the intelligence to "frame up" such a story, even were there not the physical evidences and the confession of the man to sustain them.

Justice should be done in this case, if possible. Probably the criminal code affords no adequate relief in cases of this sort, a deplorable fact, if true. It may be that the savage who inflicted these years of suffering can best be made to atone without further appeal to apparently inadequate criminal procedure.
There is some doubt about this, for Moonstock attributed his brutality to an uncontrollable temper. He said his "brains got hot." If that is the case, is society safe with him and his "hot brains" at large? Does not the public security demand that he be put where from bars will control his temper? But to cold, deliberate brutality, not to temper, is this conduct more logically attributable. A temper might have caused him to kill the boy with a sudden blow, but nothing but vicious lust for cruel deeds could have inspired this studied refinement of torture.

The criminal law failing, there is yet a way to reach this arch fiend, a way that affords some little compensation to the orphan for suffering and toil. Anyone seeing his muscles must conclude that the man in whose service they were developed made a handsome profit on the labors of this boy, above the food and bed and a few clothes he was given. His anguish he could not have been hired to endure at any price. The civil courts are open to entertain his case and to do him justice. His persecutor is said to be a well-to-do farmer able to make restitution.

A civil suit should be entered against Moonstock, and a jury be given an opportunity to say how much money he shall pay this child upon whose body, until death, there must remain the evidences of the most cowardly and cold blooded inhumanity of which our court records have any chronicle.

What He Was Mad About.

Representative Bell of Georgia, who has been a sympathizer of Mr.
Williams in his endeavor to harmonize the warring factions of democracy in the lower house of congress, is well acquainted with the history of the Williams-De Armond feud, which has brought these men into antagonism almost every time during the last few years that the democrats in the house have had any honor to bestow. Speaking of the inception of the recent row, Mr.
Bell said:

"The situation reminds me of a Methodist minister down in my district who had charges preferred against him by one of his flock. After the charges had been presented to the congregation the minister arose to reply. He said: 'This man ain't mad about what he says he's mad about. He's mad about something else than what he says he's mad about.'—Chicago News.

"Fool!" exclaimed a fop at his club, throwing down the morning paper, "Jones you voted for Roosevelt. Won't you admit now that he's made a pretty bad mess of things trying to mix in on Wall street?"
"Well," said Jones advisedly, "that seems to be the general impression that prevails among the masses."

"I'll have you understand, sir, that I am not one of the masses!"
"I know that," yawned Jones, getting up. "I prefixed the 'I' to merely out of consideration for your feelings."—Everybody's Magazine.

SPOTLIGHTS

A Clever Performance.
Winninger Bros. and their company opened their seven nights' engagement at the La Crosse theater last night to a large house and to say they were well received would be expressing it lightly. The play, "A Perfect Man," proved far above the ordinary may seen at popular prices, and elicited rounds of applause. All the characters were well taken. Chas.
Winninger, as Jack Spencer, and Bonnie Male as Nell Graham, the model, proved themselves favorites from the start in both their roles, as their specialties. Adolf Winninger as Otto Vockelsberger, the old German professor, was well received, and the balance of the company came in for their well merited share of applause.

Tonight the company will be seen in a pastoral play in four acts, "Clover Dale." The company will remain the entire week, and the management wishes to assure its patrons of as fine a line of plays as was ever seen here at even higher prices.

The specialties as well as the play will be changed completely every performance, and no old plays under new names will be present. d.

Grand Opera This Week.

La Crosse society takes special interest in the extraordinary engagement of the San Carlo Grand Opera company, which will present at the La Crosse theater Gounod's "Faust" with Miss Alice Nielsen as Marguerite on Thursday, Feb. 27. Almost all the boxes and orchestra seats have been reserved by the most prominent music lovers of the city. The regular box office sale opened this morning. Manager W. F. Gage announces that owing to the great demand for seats, no telephone orders will be taken from the city.

The San Carlo Grand Opera company includes 160 artists, a special orchestra of 40, a chorus of 55, and a complete ballet. The feature of special interest in the appearance of the company in this city is the presentation of a matinee performance of "Carmen." This will no doubt be appreciated to the utmost by La Crosse music lovers, as it furnishes a rare opportunity to hear two of the great operas during the appearance of the company in this city.

FASHION HINTS

By MAY MANTON

5908 Blouse or Shirt Waist, 32 to 40 bust.

(To be made with or without pointed yoke on back.)

The shirt waist that allows effective use of embroidery is one greatly in demand just now and here is one that can be so treated or left plain as liked. In the illustration it is made of linen, and the yoke and cuffs are embroidered, but the imple stitched edge gives a certain smartness and the tailored effect that many women prefer to everything else and the waist is equally well adapted to that style. Again, its sleeves can be made with the cuffs or with narrow bands as preferred and also the back can be left plain or made with an applied pointed yoke. All the waistings are appropriate, the many washable ones and also those of silk and light weight wools.

The waist is made with the yoke portions, fronts and back. The fronts are tucked but the back is left plain and the box plait is applied over the front edge. The sleeves of moderate fullness are gathered at their lower edges whether the deep cuffs or the narrow bands are used.
The quantity of material required for the medium size is 3 1/2 yards 21 or 24, yards 32 or 2 yards 44 inches wide.
The pattern 5908 is cut in sizes for a 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 inch bust measure, and will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper on receipt of ten cents.
(If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage which insures more prompt delivery.)

Say?" yelled Mr. Spurge to the guest who was about to tackle a sandwich.

"Well, sir?"
"Can't you eat ham? Them chicken ing."—Washington Herald.

JUST LIFE

Queer War.

The undertakers' trust has not yet succeeded in stifling competition.

The general public is conceded to have not much of a look in with the undertaker, but down in Baltimore there is being conducted one of the liveliest "cut rate" wars imaginable between the handlers of the dead.

Resultant upon the strife there is a liberal pictorial display of coffins all over the city, the illustration of satin lined coffins being accompanied with such legends as:—"Try my $75 funerals. You will like them." Full and detailed lists of all articles necessary to bury one with neatness and precision are seen daily in the newspapers in display type, illuminated with cuts. It was begun by two young and bold spirits who announced that they could furnish the best funerals at $75, and that there was but one price. The fact that they possessed all modern conveniences in the way of commodious parlors, private chapels and convenient locations, and that they give the "best service, superior quality and style and excellence," are announced, just as they advertise stove polish or shoestings in the department stores.
One may get a black hearse or a grey hearse, any of the six different styles of coffins, six door caskets of any shade and "no extra charges." The methods of the independents cut into the receipts of the conservatives and old timers to such an extent that they awoke just once. They inserted a joint but unsigned advertisement deprecating the methods of the cut rate undertakers, but wound up with the statement that they would do the same thing for the same price. They sank into respectable obscurity again, while the advertisements of the independents grow larger.

Here is a sample display advertisement from a Baltimore paper:

TURNER

When you arrange with TUR-

Funerals you get the best of everything, and you save Fifty Per the Casket and then paying extra for everything else has been relegated to oblivion by TURNER.

With him the price of the Casket is the price of the Funeral. That price is Seventy-five Dollars and not a penny more. The fact that TURNER'S business has increased to just double in the past year speaks for itself. The people know where to go for honest treatment.

THE TYRANNY OF TAILORS.

(New York Times.)

The disposition of some of the tailors to revive some of the grotesque styles of the '60s should be resisted by all intelligent men. Braided coats and waistcoats, single-button cutaways, broadcrotch waistcoats, glass buttons, queer lapels are not in accord with the spirit of the age. The plea that the tailors want to get away from the conventional styles of the "ready-made" trade should not be heeded by sensible men. Modern distinction does not depend upon dress. Tailors are inclined to be tyrants, and tyranny was never so unpopular and unprofitable as it now is.
Let us all stick to rational styles.

Young Wife—Doctor, is my husband's age against him in this illness? Is there any hope?

Doctor—Any hope? How can I tell madam, unless I know which way you would like this illness to end?—

ALADDIN OF LONDON

BY MAX PEMBERTON

CHAPTER XXIV.

The Dawn of the Day.

Count Sergius believed that he had settled the affair Gessner when he gave his instructions to the Chief of the Police, and the subsequent hours found him exceedingly pleased with himself.

An artist in his profession, he flattered himself that it had all come about in the manner of his own anticipations and that he would be able to carry back to London a story which would not only win upon a rich man's gratitude, but advance him considerably in the favor of those who could well reward his labors.

This was an amiable reflection and one that ministered greatly to his self-content. No cloud stood upon the horizon of his self-esteem nor did shadows darken his glowing hopes.
He had promised Richard Gessner to arrest the girl Lois Borisoff, and arrested she would be before twelve o'clock tomorrow.

As for this amiable English lad, so full of fine resolutions, so defiant, so self-willed, it would be a good job enough to clap him in a police station for four-and-twenty hours and to bow him out again, with profuse apologies, when the girl was on her way to Petersburg to join her amiable father in the Schlusshaus.

For Alban personally he had a warm regard. The very honesty of his character, his habit of saying just what he meant (so foreign to the Count's own practice), his ingenious delight in all that he saw, his modern knight-errantry based upon an absurdly old-fashioned notion of right and wrong and justice and all such stuff as that, these were the very qualities that won the admiration of a man of the world who possessed none of them. Count Sergius said that the lad must suffer nothing. His intrigues with the daughter of a Polish anarchist were both dangerous and foolish. And was he not already the acknowledged lover of Anna Gessner, whom he must marry upon his return to London. Certainly, it would be very wrong not to lock him up, and he, Sergius, was not going to take the responsibility of any other course upon his already overburdened shoulders.

These being his ideas, he found it amusing enough to meet Alban at the dinner-table and to speak of tomorrow and its program. The reply to the cable they had dispatched to London lay already warm in his pocket, sent straight to him from the postoffice as the police had directed. It was fitting that he should open the ball with a lie about this, and add thereto any other pleasant fancy which a fertile imagination dictated.

"Gessner does not cable us," he said at that moment of the repast when the glasses are first filled and the tongue is loosed. "I suppose he has gone over to Paris again as he hinted might be the case. If there is no news tomorrow, we must reconsider the arguments and see how we stand. You know that I am perfectly willing to be guided by him and will do nothing which are not great. Besides, I am not musician enough really to enjoy the Ring. If it were not for the pretty women who come to my box to escape ennui, I would find Wagner intolerable."

Alban, very quietly and not a little excited tonight, differed from this opinion altogether.

"My father was a musician," he said. "I believe that if he had not been a parson, he would have been a great musician. I don't know very much about music myself, but the first time that Mr. Gessner took me to hear one of Wagner's operas, I seemed to live in a new world. It could not have been just the desire to like it, for I had made up my mind that it would be very dry. There is something in such music as that which is better than all argument. I shall never forget the curious sensation which came to me when first I heard the overture to Tannhauser played by a big orchestra. You will not deny that it is splendid?"

"Undoubtedly it is fine—especially where the clarinets come in and you seem to have five hundred mice running up your back. I am not going to be drawn into an argument on the point—these likes and dislikes are individual. To me it seems perfectly ridiculous that one man should quarrel with another because a third person has said or written something about which they disagree. In politics of course, there is justification. The Have-Nots want to get money out of the Haves and the pockets supply the adjectives. But in the arts, which exist for our pleasure—why, I might as well fall foul of you because you do not like caviar and are more partial to brunettes than to blondes. My taste is all the other way—I dote upon caviar; golden-haired women are to me just a little more attractive than the angels. But, of course, that does not speak for their tempers."

He laughed at the candor of it, and looking round the brilliant restaurant where they dined tonight, he began to speak in a low tone of Russian and Polish women generally.

"The Polish ladies are old-fashioned enough to love one man at a time —in their own country, at any rate.
The Russians, on the contrary, are less selfish. A Russian woman is often the victim of three centuries of suppressed female ambitions. She has large ideas, fierce passions, an excellent political sense—and all these must be cooled by the wet blanket of a very ordinary domesticity. In reality, she is not domesticated at all and would far sooner be following her lover—the one for the day—down the street with a flag. Here you have the reason why a Russian woman appeals to us.

She is rarely beautiful—some of them would themselves admit the deficiency—but she is never an embarrassment. Tell her that you are tired of her and you will discover that she was about to stagger your vanity by a similar confidence. In these days of revolution, she is seen at her best. Fear neither of God nor man will restrain her.
We have more of the show of religion and less of the spirit in Russia than in any other country in the world. Here in Poland, it is a little different. Some of our women are as the idealists would have them to be.
But there are others—or the city would be intolerable."

Alban had lived too long in a world of cynics that this talk should either surprise or entertain him. Men in Union Street spoke of women much as this careless fellow did, rarely generous to them and often exceedingly unjust. His own ideals he had confessed wholly to none, not even to Anna Gessner in the moment of their great intimacy. That fine old-world notion of the perfect womanhood, developed to the point of idolatry by the Celts of the West, but standing none the less as a witness to the whole world's desire, might remain but as a memory of his youth—he would neither surrender it nor admit that it was unworthy of men's homage. When Sergius spoke of his own country-women, Alban could forgive him all other estimates. And this was as much as to say that the image of Lois was with him even in that splendid place, and that some sentiment of her humble faith and sacrifice had touched him to the quick.

NOVELTY WOOD WORKS DESTROYED

INCENDIARY FIRE CAUSES A LOSS OF $15,000

CHIEF BRADFIELD MYSTIFIED

Believes the Fire Was Set, and Can Offer No Other Explanation; Other Property Saved

A fire, believed to be incendiary, destroyed the Novelty Wood works on the North side Saturday night, with a loss of $15,000.

Fire was first discovered at about 12:30 Saturday night and by the time Department No. 2 was on the scene the building was a mass of flames. From all appearances the fire had been started from the interior and may have been the work of an incendiary as there had been no fire in the plant for several days. The building was filled with boxes and other inflammable material and the fire was soon beyond control. The firemen devoted their efforts to preventing the flames spreading to adjacent buildings.

"The loss, as near as I can estimate it, will amount to about $15,000," said Fire Chief Bradfield. "The origin is a mystery, but from all appearances it was set afire."

If the building was set afire it only adds another of the already lengthy list of incendiary fires, the instigator of which the police are diligently seeking to locate.

RUBBER MILLS CO. LETS OUT FOREMAN

Stuart Murphy, 332 Caledonia street, who for the past seven years has been employed as foreman at the La Crosse Rubber Mills has been notified by the new Manager Hart who recently succeeded Manager Andrus that his services would no longer be required after Monday.

Foreman Murphy is popular among the employees at the Rubber Mills, and his release comes as a surprise. It is understood that Manager Hart has sent for other help from Canada to take the places of several of the local men who have been in the service of the company.

Simon Sundehn, who some time ago lost an arm, in one of the big machines while employed for the company, has been getting $12 per week, but the new manager has reduced his pension to $8 per week.

It is understood that the labor unions are to take up the matter and may try to have the local men reinstated.

OLD RESIDENT OF NORTH SIDE DEAD

Mr. B. Whiting, one of the oldest residents of the North Side, passed away at the home of his son, S. J. Whiting, 912 Island street, at 3:30 Sunday morning. Death was due to the infirmities of old age.

Mr. Whiting was 86 years old and has been a resident of the North Side for many years.

The funeral arrangements have not been made as yet but it will in all probability be held Wednesday and the body will be shipped to Hokah for interment.

He is survived by two sons, S. J. of La Crosse and one residing in Seattle. He also leaves one daughter, Mrs. Will of La Crosse.

BEGIN CAMPAIGN FOR MILE OF PENNIES

The Ladies' club of the St. James church has begun a campaign for the "Mile of Pennies" for the decoration of the interior of the church, with much enthusiasm. They have had strips of paper with 16 places in each foot in which to insert a penny.

They expect to have raised their mile of pennies by the latter part of June. The idea is creating much interest and a number of "feet" have already been sold.

WRECKING CREW PROVIDED COMFORTS

SPECIAL COACHES FITTED UP FOR CONVENIENCE

SLEEP AT SCENE OF WRECK

In Past Workmen Have Been Forced to Lay Down Anywhere During Work at Accidents

The Burlington road is making provision for the comfort of the wrecking crew while it is at work.

A new idea which was recently conceived by one of the officials has been put into practice. Two coaches have been fitted up, one into a sleeper with all modern conveniences, and the other into a well equipped diner and cooking car, so that when the men are out on the road where there are no accommodations near, they can sleep and eat at the scene of the wreck.

Last season when the road experienced a number of large washouts the crews were forced to sleep in tents or outside, as the small stations at which they stopped could provide for but few of the men in the crews.

In case any similar accidents occur this spring, the road will be able to provide ample comfort for their employees.

RATES ARE RAISED DESPITE COMMISSION

A few months ago the railroads made an effort to raise freight rates on small packages which proved a failure, as the state railroad commission put a veto on it. Now they have adopted a different plan which they think can not be successfully contested.

Freight rates on small lots have been boosted more than 100 per cent in some cases on all classes of goods.

The increase relates entirely to shipments of less than 100 pounds, in interstate business, or in business within the bounds of the state on which two or more roads are involved.

Where the minimum rate on this small business heretofore has been 25 cents, the minimum now is made the rate per 100 pounds in whatever class the freight comes.

In the third class, which the rate on a Chicago shipment of less than 10 pounds has been 25 cents, it is now 44 cents, the rate per 100 pounds in that class. In the first class the rate now will be 65 cents, the rate per 100 pounds.

The change of the minimum is an order of the Western Trunk Line association, and affects all roads between the boundary line of Indiana westward to the Rocky mountains. The railroads say they have been losing money on this class of small business, and the change is the result.

When a shipment is within the state, but two or more roads are involved, the old rate of 25 cents holds good, but it can be collected by each road over which the shipment passes.

The class most affected by the change is the country merchant. The jobbers' toes are also trod upon, but not to a startling degree. It is said that rates on big shipments may also be raised in the near future. Railroads all over the United States are planning an increase in general freight rates, it is said.

people who are back of La Follette are all with Roosevelt, but many of them think the president has not gone half far or fast enough. Senator La Follette represents the extreme republicans just as certainly as Senator Foraker does the other end.

When the convention meets it need surprise no one if a certain sprinkling of delegates from all over the country demand the renomination of Roosevelt, and, failing in that, settle down in the La Follette camp. Thoughtful people have grouped the Roosevelt strength under three candidates—first, those who follow La Follette, believing in his radicalism; then the adherents of Taft, who look for a judicial Roosevelt; and, finally, the somewhat confused devotees of Hughes, who look on the New York governor as a modified, simplified and altogether conservative Roosevelt.

His Ideas Become Roosevelt's.

To a certain extent it is unfair to Senator La Follette to treat him as a radical. He was denounced ten or a dozen years ago for advocating the things which are now taken as matter of course. It is a matter of record that La Follette in Wisconsin had made several campaigns on the issue of regulation of railroads before President Roosevelt undertook to pass his rate bill. The fierceness of the division in Wisconsin between the republican factions dominated by Henry C. Payne and La Follette grew out of a demand by La Follette for an equalized taxation and the regulation by the state of the railroad corporations.

People called La Follette a demagogue then, and may use the same unenviable epithet now, but it must be admitted that the general principle of railroad regulation on which "Little Bob" won his first great battle is now so fully recognized in every state that he would be a hardy public man who would defy it.

The theory that a railroad corporation, being given certain public rights, is subject to public control within reasonable limits is now accepted by all legislatures and has been condemned by courts. The political primary law, for which La Follette fought so hard in Wisconsin, is now on the statute books of a dozen states, and even the principle of fixing a maximum passenger rate has been adopted east and west along the lines originally urged by La Follette and for which he was roundly denounced by the corporate interests of the whole country.

Not Given to Fancy Theories. It may be true that "Little Bob" has been obscured since he arrived in Washington. He has certainly done nothing startling, nothing radical, nothing sensational. He is one of the 92 senators and he has done his work unostentatiously, successfully, and without criticism. It must be remembered, however, that this man who is so frequently called radical may be merely a few steps in advance of his party. He is not a socialist nor a believer in advanced theories of government. He does not advocate the government ownership of railroads and he has never been committed to any of the fads and fancies which have distinguished Bryan, to whom the Wisconsin senator frequently has been compared. It is to be in advance of his party is an honor, La Follette has it; if it is a mistake, he probably will accept the responsibility and seek to bring the party up to his level.

It must never be forgotten that, while President Roosevelt is entitled to the great credit of having initiated the railroad rate regulations in congress, Gov. La Follette of Wisconsin and Gov. Cummins of Iowa are entitled to much to the credit for the awakening of the public conscience which made the Roosevelt triumph possible.

It is to La Follette, too, that must be charged up another idea in the direction of control of the railroads which is now firmly fixed in the mind of President Roosevelt, although he has not yet insisted upon its being placed on the statute books. This is the theory that railroads must submit to some sort of process by which their real cash value may be determined as a basis for future rate making.

Court Supports His Plans. Gov. La Follette first crystallized this idea in his campaign speeches and his messages as governor. He insisted, merely as a matter of theory.

A DELICATE PIECE OF MACHINERY. Very Much Abused—Needs Attention Occasionally.

Did you ever stop and consider what a delicate piece of machinery your stomach is? and did it ever occur to you that you would not treat an old wagon as you do your stomach. In this fast age we're living, we overload our stomachs, we eat too fast, we wear them out, they need a little oiling up just the same as any other piece of machinery. Thousands of people suffer from Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, when they lose their appetite. If you will give your stomach the proper attention and care you'll prevent these diseases. There are many remedies for Stomach Troubles but the following mixture will keep the stomach in good shape and help it perform its work.

Compound Tincture of Cinchona, one ounce; Prosen Compound, one ounce; and Sherry Wine, half a pint. Mix together and take one teaspoonful in water before meals and at bed time.

The above mixture is now becoming famous as the Prosen Prescription for Stomach Troubles. The Prosen Compound is of very high digestive power. It can be taken alone in three to five drop doses in a little water, but preferably in the above mixture.

Prosen Compound is prepared by the Cooper Pharmaceutical Company, Chicago.

ry, that the people had the right to fix a rate either for freight or passengers which would bring a fair return on the capital actually invested, and that the railroads had no right to put a fictitious value on their property and then expect the public to pay the rates based upon that falsehood.

Since Gov. La Follette formulated this theory, which only a few years ago was denounced as radicalism run riot and as downright Socialism, the supreme court has sustained the idea completely. It has held that a railroad may charge a tariff which produces a fair return on the amount invested, and that any rate above that, based on a mere issue of stocks or bonds, is unreasonable and may be abolished by the proper authority.

It may be that La Follette will not be nominated at Chicago. Under the present conditions it would be extraordinary if he were. His failure in 1908 does not mean, however, that he will be out of the running four years or even eight years, from now. His political history can be read with profit by the people who feel inclined to scoff at the Wisconsin senator and his presidential prospects.

He was admitted to the bar in February, 1880, when he was a little less than 25 years old. That same year, before he had had twelve months' experience at the bar, he made up his mind to become the prosecuting attorney for Lane county. He had attended law school for only fourteen weeks and he began his practice eight months after he had left the university.

E. W. Keys was then postmaster of Madison and was recognized as the political boss of Wisconsin. He laughed at the young student who had the temerity to become a candidate for a place which was wanted by a dozen well equipped lawyers who had a good standing in the republican party. He turned down La Follette with an abruptness characteristic of the boss in all the states.

But La Follette didn't stay turned down. He went out into the country on his own account and made a hand to hand and house to house canvass. He had more at stake than the other man, and he worked harder. He wanted to get married and needed the money the office would bring to start housekeeping with. Boss Keys was beaten in his own county by an unknown young student, who looked like a barnstorming actor and talked like a whirlwind.

Four years later he became a candidate for congress and again he was laughed at by the local bosses. They were all against him, but he won out by a personal hand shaking canvass, during the progress of which he met every voter in the district and captivated him by his earnestness. After six years in congress he went down to defeat in the disastrous election of 1890, when McKinley and others lost their seats.

Then La Follette determined to be governor of Wisconsin and once more he ran against his old friends, the political bosses of the state. He made two unsuccessful canvasses for the nomination and worked so hard that he nearly lost his life. The third time he was successful. He captured the nomination against the opposition of all the old wheel horses of the republican party in Wisconsin. The fight between the stalwarts and the half-breeds had become a part of the political history of the country. In spite of all the opposition La Follette, however, triumphed. He carried the state for governor in 1890, in 1902, and 1904.

At the beginning of his third term he dominated the state. He had himself elected to the United States senate to succeed Quarles in January, 1905, and yet he did not take his seat until the following winter. He spent the interval in solidifying his strength in the legislature and he did not come to Washington until he felt that he left behind him a coherent political machine on which he could absolutely depend.

Next June the La Follette delegation will be admitted to the Chicago convention uncontested, and it will present as a candidate for the presidency the same man who was turned out of the doors four years ago.

LA CROSSE LOSES

TWO BIG DEBATES

The debating team representing the Jefferson club of the Sparta High school won from the team of the Lincoln-Douglas society of the La Crosse High school in the big labor question debate held at Sparta Saturday evening. The debate was a very interesting one and showed a great deal of preparation on both sides. The La Crosse team was composed of Sigvald Stavrum, Paul Esch and Ben Stevens. Arthur Witting, Andrew Johnson and Carl Blackman represented the Sparta High school. The chairman for the evening was Dr. Stiles of Sparta and the jurors were Prof. Baldwin, superintendent of schools at Reedsburg, Prof. Jordan, superintendent of Onalaska schools, and Prof. Stevens of the Winona normal. Sigvald Stavrum of the La Crosse team was considered the best speaker of the evening, having the best arguments and very good delivery. Paul Esch also made a very good impression and was considered the best of the evening by one of the judges.

While the jury was voting the audience was pleasantly entertained by the Sparta Quartet and Master Elbridge. The latter gave a comic declamation which was well received. Five minutes after the close of the debate the jurors gave their decision. Dr. Stiles, the chairman spoke, a few words on the debate and then gave the decision of the jury as unanimous in favor of Sparta.

team of debaters was also defeated by the Viroqua team. The local debaters upheld the affirmative of the question which was the same as debated at Sparta. The decision of the jury here was also unanimous in favor of the opposing team. The La Crosse debaters were Howard Jones who also conducted the rebuttal, Eugene Leuning and Carl Neprud. The Viroqua debaters were Earl Adlington, Royal Bennett and Alvon Tyron. The chairman was Rev. Hoag of this city and the jury was composed of Prof. W. A. The Sparta team which debated at Viroqua also met with defeat. Viroqua won two debates. La Crosse lost both and Sparta won one and lost one.

GREAT SUNDAY FOR THE BAPTIST CHURCH

The First Baptist church was far from spacious enough to hold the crowd that sought admittance there last night. Every inch of available room was occupied and hundreds stood throughout the entire service while a hundred others found it impossible to gain even standing room.

The special interest in the service centered in the reception of members into the active membership of the church. Twenty-two of those who decided for a new life during the Riley-Martin revival meetings were received during the day. There are more than that number still waiting to be received at future services. However twenty-two is the largest number ever received in any one day in the history of the church.

The baptismal service of Sunday night was marred to a considerable extent by the curious spirit on the part of some. The crowd was so large as to make it difficult to control and yet for all those who have been trained in the Baptist belief the ceremony was most impressive. It was a sight not to be lightly treated by even the most indifferent person to see so many young people thus publicly dedicate their lives to the church.

or his discourse Rev. John Wellington Hoag, pastor of the church, took the occasion to give an explanation and defense of Baptist fundamentals. Personal allegiance to Christ and loyalty to the Bible were the special fundamentals upon which the Baptist faith and practice were shown to be based.

In making the announcements Rev. Hoag stated that should any questions arise in the minds of those present regarding the Baptist contentions and those questions were sent to him during the week that next Sunday night he would endeavor to publicly answer them.

A GOOD NAME

EVERY one desires to establish for himself a good name, but it takes time to win the confidence of your fellow men. Truth and perseverance are the alternate rungs on the ladder of success, and he who reaches the top must make no false step.

There are hundreds of cough medicines with all sorts of names, each claiming to be the best, but the test of time will prove whether or not they have established the right to be called the best.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has had thirty-five years of sale and use, and has cured coughs and colds under all conditions, in all countries and climates, and the verdict today is that it has no equal.

Careful selection of the drugs, intelligent and skillful compounding, the entire absence of opium, chloroform, or any other harmful ingredient, and the absolute purity of every article that goes into its composition, has built up and sustained its good name.

These are the things you should remember, and the next time you want a cough medicine, it is worth while to see that you get Chamberlain's and secure the virtues which a good name implies.

BELIEVE COOPERAGE FIRE INCENDIARY

NO FIRE IN THE BUILDING FOR MONTHS

OTHER FIRES IN PAST YEARS

Suspicious Circumstances Lead to the Belief Firebug is at Work Rebuild the

Was the fire that destroyed the cooperage plant of the C. A. Doud Sons Co. of incendiary origin?

Saturday afternoon the building was found to be burning from a fire that originated in a "clean-to" on the northeast side of the building, a portion of which is seldom entered, and as no one has been in the building for some time the theory of incendianism advanced.

The plant has been closed since last fall but the foreman and another man have been working for some time. According to them, there has been no fire in the building.

Owing to the distance of the building from the hydrants some difficulty was encountered by Companies No. 1 and 2 in getting hose to the fire and by the time they made the connection the fire was burning so fiercely that it was practically impossible to get close to it. It was impossible to save the main portion of the building so the firemen turned their efforts to keeping the fire from spreading to the adjacent property.

The alarm came in about 5 o'clock and the firemen remained until after midnight. Traffic was blocked between the North and South sides street cars, passengers being forced to change cars.

C. A. Doud, manager of the plant, was in Winona at the time of the fire, but arrived at 9 o'clock in response to a telegram. According to Mr. Doud he can see no other solution than incendiarianism. The Doud Sons' company has been in La Crosse for the last eight years and in that time they have had three serious fires and all have been under peculiar circumstances. The last fire occurred some time ago on Saturday at about the same time of day.

The loss by the last fire is estimated roughly at between $9,000 and $10,000.

At the time of the fire preparations were being made for the reopening of the plant in the spring. Although a new building will not be erected at once one will be put up in the future.

"CHESTY" COX, IDOL
OF FANS, AT BIJOU

The baseball season will open at the Bijou tonight, with "Chester" Cox in the box.

Mr. Cox, baseball player and actor, and good at both, will close his season behind the footlights with the end of the La Crosse engagement Sunday night, going direct from here to Memphis, where he reports for duty as an outfielder in the Southern league team of that city.

"Chester" has solved the problem that keeps lots of good men out of baseball. He has framed up a way to play ball the year round. His winter "stunt" is a baseball specialty, in which he introduces a unique idea. He "gets on quick and gets off quicker," as he himself puts it, but to the fans his act is a scream, made realistic by his appearance in full baseball uniform.

Mr. Cox is an old school friend of Dr. H. Clay Evenson. He called on President John Elliott this morning, and swapped the gossip of the diamond for a few moments. He lost out in the major league ball a few years ago when, while with the Louisville Americans, his pitching arm went wrong. Now he has worked his way back through the field.
Four years ago he was with the Chicago team of the California state league, next season with Calumet in the Northern, and last year with the Winnipeg aggregation of the Northern Copper league.

Several musical instruments are at his command, and the spacy monologue with which he amuses the theatergoers introduces a wholesome and healthy young man of whom press notices everywhere say "He is there with the goods."

CHARLES SCHLUTTER
DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Charles Schlutter, 214 Market street, died this morning, at the La Crosse hospital, after a short illness with pneumonia.

Mr. Schlutter has been ill but a short time and yesterday he was taken considerably worse and a consultation was held. He was removed to the La Crosse hospital in the ambulance and died at 8 o'clock this morning. Deceased has been employed by the Hellesman Ice company for a number of years.

The funeral arrangements have not been completed and will be announced later.

STOMACH IN 5 MINUTES

Miserable indeed is the man or woman whose digestive system is un-strung—who goes to the table and cannot eat or what little is eaten seems to fill them and lays like a lump of lead in the stomach, refusing to digest.

If you, dear reader, suffer this way and will put on your wraps now and get from your Pharmacist a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and eat one 22-grain triangle after your next meal you would appreciate, five minutes after, how long you suffered unnecessarily.

There will be no more indigestion that day—No lead in the stomach—No souring or Belching of Gas, no Heartburn, Flatulency or Eructations of undigested food and acid or feeling of Nausea, Fullness, Headache or other symptoms of a weakened Stomach.

Stomach trouble and indigestion vanish like snow before the blazing sun by the use of these Triangles, which are harmless and taste like candy, though they will digest 3,000 grains of food the same as a strong, healthy stomach would do it.

When Diapepsin works your Stomach rests—gets itself in order. Diapepsin purifies and sweetens a sour stomach and freshens the intestines without the use of Laxatives, and what is more it increases the gastric juices. This is what your Stomach is begging for—more and better digestive juices. This is what makes you hungry and want to eat, and you can rest assured what you then eat will be taken care of properly and not left in the stomach to ferment and turn to gas and acid, and poison the breath with nauseous odors.

You ought to have Diapepsin about the house always. Should one of your family get something which does not agree with them, or for a Sour Stomach or Excessive Gas, one triangle will always give immediate relief.

WEST SALEM WILL HAVE CATTLE MOST HEALTHFUL OF ALL

WEST SALEM, Wis., Feb. 24.— (Special.)—Investigation of tuberculosis among cattle about West Salem continues under the auspices of the La Crosse County Guernsey Breeders' association, and Secretary H. W. Griswold says the cases are averaging about two to the herd.

"We propose to eradicate the disease, and our course will succeed," said Mr. Griswold today. "We secured the assistance of the state. The disease is discovered through a process of inoculation, and we are now disposing of every diseased creature in this section. It is a slow disease, and repeated tests at proper intervals will be required to stamp it out, but it is now being eliminated to such an extent as to put West Salem herds above the average in healthfulness."

In Mr. Griswold's own herd one case was discovered, but it was fortunately that of a recently purchased bull, which was so promptly dispatched as to render contagion practically impossible.

NO EXTENSION OF SOUTHEASTERN RY.

GENERAL AGENT EIDEMILLER DENIES REPORT

SURVEYED TO MADISON, WIS.

But Gave Up Project Owing to Poor

Road Bed—Says Mr. Cargill Owns All the Stock

There is no plan on foot at the present for an extension of the line of the La Crosse & Southeastern, and I do not think there will be this year," stated A. L. Eidemiller, general agent of the road when asked to verify a report that the company was planning an extension to Dodgeville.

In this morning's issue of the MILwaukee Free Press the following article is given from Highland, Wis.:

Years ago in the early eighties, when the Illinois Central projected an extension from Freeport to Dodge-ville, the survey was carried out of Dodgeville north for some distance and speculation was rife as to the ultimate destination of this extension. Last year the La Crosse & Southeastern railway extended its line to Viola, in Richland county.

This line, it is practically conceded, is owned by the Illinois Central railway, which proposes to connect up the two extensions by building from Viola to Dodgeville by taking in the towns of Richland Center, Avoka, Highland, Cobb and Dodgeville. Now and again reports are circulated to the effect that the Mineral Point & Northern railway, with terminals at Dodgeville, is really destined for some connecting point upon the Prairie du Chien division of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway at a point a few miles west of Muscoda, in Grant county. It is pointed out that the Milwaukee road could effect a saving of about two hours in running time between Chicago and St.
Paul by making the Mineral Point division a portion of the main line to the northwest. Should this transpire it will kill any attempts upon the part of the Southeastern & La Crosse to cut through this section.

After reading the article, Mr. Eidemiller was of the opinion that it was in view of boosting the town and incidentally stirring up interest on the plan with hopes of getting the company to make the extension.

"Since the opening of the road," stated Mr. Eidemiller, "we have had numerous petitions and entertained delegates on the proposition of extending the line, but the company has not made any plan and will not consider anything until Mr. Cargill returns from his trip in Mexico."

"That the line is practically conceded as owned by the Illinois Central railway" is not true. Mr. Cargill owns every share of the stock and has never been approached by the Illinois Central people. We made no extension last year and the La Crosse & Southeastern has its terminal at Viroqua, while the extension to Viola has never been brought up.
Last year we surveyed the line to Madison, but because of the poor road bed the matter was dropped and nothing more has been taken up regarding the Madison extension.

WINNIPEG MGR. HERE;
SIGN RED MOORE

"Chester" Eugene Cox has played in about every state in league baseball during the past eleven years, and has been manager of the Winnipeg baseball club, called on President John A. Elliott of the local club today.

He has signed with the Memphis club and will leave next week, the present week being his last in vande-ville. He is showing at the Bijou theater in a monologue sketch.

He plays first baseman and outfielder and for seven years was a pitcher, but his arm was knocked out by a runner.

Manitowoc Claims "Red" President John A. Elliott of the La Crosse club has a contract with "Red" Moore, the catcher, in his desk, but nevertheless the Manitowoc club claims him according to the Milwaukee Sentinel.

Cousins Here Manager John Cousins of the Medicine Hat team will be in the city this afternoon according to a telegram received from him this morning.

President Elliott believes that he is looking for training quarters.
Rockford and Oshkosh are to train at the former's grounds.

SPRING VALLEY, N. Y., Feb. 24.— A foam specked pair of horses that tore through the streets yesterday dragging between them a splintered wagon pole, brought to the village the first news of a grade crossing accident in which nine members of its most prominent families were either killed outright or frightfully injured.

The dead:
George Reith, May Nelson, Bertha Singer, Edith Singer, George Shinn, Jeanette Palmer.

FAST TRAIN WRECKED Flavilla, Ga., Feb. 24.—The Southern railway's fast Florida Limited southbound, from Chicago to Jacksonville, was derailed five miles south of here today. Two mail clerks and two express messengers were injured. The cause of the derailment is a mystery. No passengers were injured.

When a girl calculates to get married it would certainly be a Miss calculation if she missed her calculation.

NORTHWEST IN BRIEF

PIERRE, S. D.—N. B. Switzer of Washington, a government inspector of surveys, is in this city, to inspect the old Fort Bennett military reservation, which comprised a strip of land along the Missouri from the mouth of the Cheyenne river to the location of the old fort and agency. As soon as the survey of this tract is approved, the land will be opened to settlement, the tract containing about a township.

MARSHALLTOWN, Iowa.—A telling argument in favor of milk inspection and the enforcement of the recent city ordinance, making it compulsory for milk dealers to have their cows inspected for tuberculosis, was made here when Dr. J. H. MacNeal, head of the veterinary department of Iowa state college, lectured on "Tuberculosis in Cows" before an audience of 800 people in the Odeon theater, and illustrated his lectures with parts of a cow which was recently condemned and slaughtered.

MANKATO, Minn.—Mrs. James E. York, who resided four miles north of the city, fell dead from heart disease. She was forty-eight years old and is survived by a husband and eleven children.

CRIPPLE RESCUES LITTLE CHILDREN

KILLS MAD DOG WITH CRUTCH AS STRONG MAN FLEES

Attacked by Snapping Animal Anderson Swings Crutch in Desperate Battle

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 24.—Hobbling desperately across the street to face deadly peril from which a stronger man had fled precipitately, Charles A. Anderson of Minneapolis, a rheumatic cripple, attacked and killed a mad dog which was rushing upon a number of children who were playing at Laurel avenue and North Fifteenth street. His only weapon was his crutch, but he wielded it so well that the dog was stretched lifeless on the pavement.

When it was certain that the animal was dead the man who had sought safety returned with hearty congratulations and helped Anderson into a nearby house. There he rested while the children whom he had saved went for a new crutch to replace the one he had broken in their defense.

The children were playing in the street and an ice man was passing near by when the dog appeared, snapping this way and that. The brute's attention was attracted by the children's shouts in their play and it made for them.

Cripple to the Rescue

The ice man happened to be directly between the dog and the children, and when he saw the creature rushing in that direction he leaped to a nearby light pole, seized the iron steps, and swung himself up out of danger, leaving a clear track between the snapping canine and the little ones.

Anderson was on the way to a doctor's office to be treated for his rheumatism, and was on the opposite side of the street from the children, but seeing the dog rushing toward the brute with his crutch. The animal dodged the blow, but its attention was distracted from the children and it turned on the cripple. In dodging the attack Anderson felt, and this saved him, for as he lay prostrate on the walk the dog, unable to stop, rushed across his body, and by the time it stopped and attacked him again he was up and swinging his crutch.

Breaks His Crutch

This time he was more fortunate, for he hit the dog squarely between the eyes. The crutch broke short

GOSSIP OF THE PIT.

U. P. Advances.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Manipulation and some covering of shorts caused a moderate uptick in a limited number of stocks this morning. Union Pacific advanced about 3/4, as did St. Paul, and there was some aggressive buying of Reading. The business was wholly professional, and the ticker is at a standstill much of the time.

In London Americans are dull and declined to be heavy.

Chicago—Hogs opened 5c higher, with receipts not as heavy as expected. The basis is $4.85 to $4.90, with $4.85 at the top. The market is strong. Cattle are steady to strong. It is an active market, with shippers and exporters good buyers, and a better market than the close of last week. A flood of lambs came in and the market is 15 to 20c lower. Buffalo is also full of lambs. Sheep held steady.

Market Outlook—There is a gradual return of bullishness and sentiment in wheat market, and this turn might easily carry prices a few cents higher, making the full recovery from bottom equal to an advance of 5c or better. Think wheat should be bought on all little dips. Domestic conditions connected with the corn market are unchanged from the past few months. Cables do not indicate that the feeling abroad is as bullish as recently. The light run last week should mean a change in stocks favorable to strength. We are friendly to the market if purchases made on the little breaks of 1/2 to 1c. Oats probably will follow corn for a time yet, although the situation is less strong in our opinion than it was a few weeks ago.

Liverpool Opening—Wheat, 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 higher from Friday's close; Corn, 1/4 higher.

Liverpool Close—Wheat, 2 1/2 to 3d higher; corn, 1/4d higher.

Hog Market—Receipts today, 60,000; left over, 3,267; prospects are steady.

Cattle—Estimated 25,000; prospects steady to strong.

Sheep—Estimated, 20,000; prospects steady.

Chicago Cash Sales—Friday, 200,000 bushels wheat; corn, 100,000 bush.; oats, 185,000 bush.

Chicago Hog Close—Estimated receipts today, 62,000; for tomorrow, 31,000; 5c higher than Saturday's close.

Cattle—Estimated 26,000; steady to 10c higher.

Sheep—25,000; steady.

There is yet room for considerable decline in the provision list, and we are inclined to favor sales on the bulges.

FROZEN BODY IS FOUND IN BRUSH

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 24.—The body of an unknown man, with both cheeks eaten by animals, was found in some brush at Snelling and Minneapolis avenues, one mile north of the state fair grounds. Little Schecht, nineteen years of age, made the discovery. An examination will be made of the body at the morgue, for indications which might mean that the man met with foul play.

CALEDONIA TEAMS WIN TWO VICTORIES

CALEDONIA, Minn., Feb. 24.—(Special).—The high school basketball teams were doubly victorious Friday evening when at Houston they defeated the basket ball teams of the high school of that place. The boys won their game by a score of 22 to 14 while the girls scored 23 to Houston's 18.

WOMEN MUST GET OFF BACKWARDS

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 24.—In an opinion rendered the supreme court says it is out of its province to penalize a woman who descends from a street car backwards.

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., Feb. 24.—Joe Horal, aged 40, committed suicide by shooting himself. He was foreman of the Burlington roundhouse.

In his hand and left him defenseless, but the dog was no longer a menace, for it rolled on the pavement where it was knocked by the blow and died in a few seconds.

Anderson was too fatigued by his excitement and efforts to get about alone, and the ice man climbed down and helped him into a house, where the invalid was cared for by the mother of one of the children whom he had protected. Later he went on to the doctor's office, using a new crutch which had been purchased by the children.

WOLVES PURSUE
FIERCE ANIMALS

BRAVE DOG OFFERS DEFENSE

Savage Animals Attack but Fast Horse Takes Pair to Safety in Hurry

MARINETTE, Wis., Feb. 24.—A.
T. Senior, who lives in the town of Porterfield reports that while returning home on the Hall avenue at line road he and his son were chased by four wolves. Mr. Senior and son were driving in a buggy about twilight. A dog with them attacked one of the wolves, but was worsted after one or two bites, and did not stop until he was out of sight.
The wolves followed the rig for about a quarter of a mile and left the road when the timber and brush had been passed. Mr. Senior says his horse is not a particularly fast one, but made good time with the wolves snarling after them.

JOHN DIETZ SEEKS SCHOOL LAW'S AID

LADYSMITH, Wis., Feb. 24.— (Special.)—John Dietz, the famous defender of Cameron dam, has turned the tables on his enemies.
By the formation of what is technically a "school district," with his home as the school house, Dietz is safe from attack. Jay Gates of Rice Lake, the instructor, has the power of the state and federal government at his back. His pupils are the Dietz children, yet if an armed attack were made on the now famous homestead, Prof. Gates has a perfect right to sally forth with his rifle and defend his school.

It is doubtful, however, if Dietz will ever be molested, for the logs in dispute are now being taken out of Thornapple river by contractors, and the "outlaw" is serenely surveying his domain.

TAX ON BACHELOR
DID THE BUSINESS

DEPERE, Wis., Feb. 24.—(Special.)—There is a marriage boom in the parish of Rev. Father Roosmaalen, and all because of a unique plan devised by the energetic pastor to raise money to build a new parsonage.

Rev. Father Roosmaalen announced a few weeks ago that the single persons of his charge would be depended on for funds for this purpose.
There was consternation among the bachelors. Since the announcement, more than a dozen marriages have been announced at Sunday services and the end is not yet. Now the reverend father fears that there will not be enough single persons left to raise the fund.

BARBERS LICENSED.

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 24.—(Special.)—More than 150 applicants for barbers' licenses are taking the state board examinations here today. On Thursday and Friday the board will hear charges of violating the barbers' law governing sanitary conditions.

CHILD SAVES SIX PEOPLE

APPLETON, Wis., Feb. 24.— When four-year-old Lillian Faltzer returned to her home after spending the night at the home of her grandmother, she was unable to gain entrance. The tot aroused neighbors, who found the six members of the family in an unconscious state as a result of coal gas escaping from a stove. Mrs. Faltzer, however, who for weeks had been in feeble health, is in a critical condition.

SUBWAY IS AGREED TO

SUPERIOR, Wis., Feb. 24.—There is understood to be every prospect that the proposed subway for Belknap street will be agreed to by the railroads that intend to cross at Spruce avenue.

STATE NEWS IN BRIEF

ALMA.—Mr. Kretschmer, proprietor of the Lincoln house, in the town of Lincoln; John Schroeder, his hired man, and a man named Kuri are under arrest as the result of a fight in the hotel, in which Fred Klug was so badly injured that he died.

KENOSHA.—The street assessment committee of the city council opened bids for paving a large number of streets. The total will exceed $62,000.

EAU CLAIRE.—At the inquest at Fairchild over the remains of Amanda Moe, the 12-year-old girl killed by a train there on Tuesday, the coroner's jury found that the Omaha railroad company was negligent in the manner in which it maintained the crossing.

OSHKOSH.—A chautauqua assembly may be held in Oshkosh through the instrumentality of the Oshkosh chamber of commerce.

SUPERIOR.—Seven gas meters were robbed Wednesday night. The robbers secured only $5.75, but the meters were destroyed.

You hear many men complaining that all they want is a chance. Every man has a dozen chances a day for bettering his condition that he does not improve.
